

Red Alert:

Save the Sky Islands Region from Air Combat Training

Transformation of Tucson's Davis-Monthan base into the third hub for AFSOC Power Projection would move air combat training from the Goldwater Range to rural towns, Native communities, and protected lands of AZ and NM - freeing the range for even worse hazards.

Combat aircraft flights over civilian areas are expected to double, with new authority for pyrotechnics, release of debris, sonic booms, unconstrained timing, and maneuvers as close as 100 feet to the ground.

The Draft Environmental Impact Statement avoids hard analysis of risks to safety, economy, research, and recreation in the only region of the continental US classified as a Biodiversity Hotspot, or to the many peoples who call it home.
